

One of the more insufferable politicians on the national scene is a congressman named Celler. Democrat from New York state. Mr. Celler is a positive gent. who claims to know all the answers. That's a cinch for Mr. Celler—for all problems he has but one answer: Write a law!

But the wetsheimers of this world sooner or later make themselves ridiculous, and the Democrat from New York state is no exception. It happened today.

A house committee is investigating the contract system under which baseball's club owners do business with their players, the assumption being that possibly this system is in conflict with the anti-trust laws.

Come now Mr. Celler with a typical political shakedown. He opens up with the charge that organized baseball has conspired to limit the major leagues to Eastern cities, and calls this situation "intolerable."

Then follows the inference that unless the major leagues do something about taking Western clubs into camp Congressman Celler will see to it that the anti-trust laws are applied to baseball.

What does this political jerk know—or care—about baseball? For a hundred years it has struggled up to its present power and greatness, and like every trade or profession or calling, has slowly evolved the rules and practices by which it does business. A legalistic congressman can throw the book at anyone—but can he make a living outside of politics... and can he do anything for baseball except destroy it?

Try Cobb, greatest name in the history of the diamond, had something really constructive to tell the house committee yesterday. Said Cobb:

"Baseball's a game—not a business."

Prohi Repeal Lifts Head in Mississippi

Jackson, Miss., Aug. 1 —(AP)—Prohibition, which has been a political issue in Mississippi for 60 years, comes up for another test in Tuesday's gubernatorial election.

The state is legally dry now, but the law is not uniformly enforced, in some sections an open liquor trade flourishes, and the illegal trade pays a state tax of 10 percent of its gross.

Gov. Fielding Wright, a long-time dry, has maintained silence on the liquor issue in this campaign. He is not up for re-election.

Proponents of repeal of the prohibition got the backing recently of former Congressman Will Whittington of Greenwood. Whittington, a powerful lay Baptist leader and former chairman of the state Baptist convention, came out in favor of controller legal liquor.

All eight candidates for governor agree they want to repeal the black market tax on liquor. Two of the candidates, Ross Barnett and Paul Johnson, Jr., are bone dry.

Jesse Byrd, who ran third in 1947 on a similar platform, says the liquor business already is here and will not be stopped. He advocated a state liquor tax.

Jimmie Walker, another candidate, contends that putting liquor out in the open would eliminate much of the state's crime.

Former Gov. Hugh White, who has always voted dry, says the issue is one for the legislature to decide.

Lt. Gov. Sam Lumpkin, with a legislative record as a dry, says he "would not stay in the way of a referendum" to decide whether the state should remain legally dry.

The only woman candidate, Mrs. Mae Cain, favors a referendum. Also endorsing a referendum is the eighth candidate for governor, Kelly Hammond.

More Cash, McMath Better Roads Give

Little Rock, Aug. 1 —(AP)—Governor McMath said today that increased tax collections, especially gasoline tax, are a natural result of better roads.

He was asked to comment on the big increase shown in recent months in collections.

"That's what we said would happen," the governor said.

"When you build roads, there's more travel, more gasoline is sold and more taxes are paid."

Objects to UN Calling Tune US Dances to

Oklahoma City, Aug. 1 —(AP)—Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer declared last night that the United States had been "naively" drawn into Korea and protested letting the United Nations "dissipate our manpower all over the world."

Discarding a prepared text, the former commander of the China theater predicted, in a dinner speech "future powder kegs" between the United States and Communists.

"If that war Korea must go on, I say let the Asians who want freedom fight," he said.

"We can arm them. If it is the decision for us to stay out there and do the job, I say remove the restrictions and give our boys every weapon in the democracy's arsenal." Presumably, that would include the atom bomb.

He also said it would be "unfortunate" if the United States sent large numbers of men to Europe instead of arming European nations to fight.

Wedemeyer, who retired from the army Monday after 34 years, urged the arming of nations everywhere to help stop communism. In particular, he praised the planned help for Franco Spain.

A critic of past United States' policy in China, Wedemeyer said that America's fighting in Korea has been restricted by other countries within the U. N.

"It will be a long time before we get an organization that will perform effectively within the U. N.," he said. "Until then, let's not let the U. N. dissipate our manpower all over the world."

At an earlier news conference, he said:

"In my judgment there will be other incidents, other powder kegs which could be fused and set off at any place and time of their choice by the Communists who own the powder keg, our wings very strong."

Wedemeyer, a witness in senate hearings on the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, described Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists as the free world's best hope in the Orient against communism.

INCORPORATES

Little Rock, Aug. 1 —(AP)—The Henley Oil company and the Henley Motor company, both of Fort Smith, filed articles of incorporation today.

Authorized capital stock of the former was listed at $250,000; of the latter, at $150,000.

Incorporators of both companies are B.W. Henley, Marian O. Henley and H.D. Beasley, all of Fort Smith.

Articles of incorporation also were filed for the Citizens Ice and Cold storage company, also of Fort Smith. Authorized capital stock was listed at $30,000. Incorporators: Roy A. Drum, Frank A. Drum and William K. Ward.

Aransan, Maj. Gen. Doyle O. Hickey of Rector, Is Chief of Staff to Gen. Ridgway

Washington, Aug. 1 —(AP)—A native of Arkansas holds an important post with the U. N. forces in Korea where the question of war or peace hangs in the balance.

Maj. Gen. Doyle O. Hickey, born July 27, 1891, at Rector, Ark., is chief of staff for Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Far Eastern commander.

Hickey has more than 33 years of service with the army and has seen action in many parts of the world. He holds many decorations from the United States and foreign countries, on Nov. 27, 1947, five years after he was graduated from Hendrix college in Arkansas with the degree of bachelor of arts, Hickey was commissioned a first lieutenant in the field artillery reserve and assigned to active duty. He trained in this country a year and was sent to France shortly before World War I ended.

In 1920, after service at Camp Gordon, Ga., and Fort Sill, Okla., Hickey received his regular army commission.

Since then his rise has been steady. He was made captain on June 2, 1925; major on Sept. 13, 1933; lieutenant colonel on Jan. 16, 1941; temporary colonel Feb. 1, 1942; temporary brigadier general Sept. 1, 1942; major general temporary on Jan. 24, 1948 and to major general, permanent, on Jan. 31, 1949 at which time his date of rank was placed at Oct. 14, 1945.

Hickey served in various capacities at various installations after becoming a regular officer. He spent two years with field artillery units in the Philippines, from 1926 to 1930.

In 1934 he entered the command and general staff school at Fort Leavenworth, Kas., and was graduated two years later. He returned to the Philippines for another tour of duty, serving as aide to Gen. F. W. Honeycutt at Fort Stotsenburg.

Back in this country in 1940, he was assigned to the 9th Division

Priest Thrown Out by Church Wants to Wed

Milan, Italy, Aug. 1 —(AP)—Luclano Negrini said today he had been expelled from priesthood in the Roman Catholic church and that he was racing with time to get legal permission to marry American-born Claire Young.

Miss Young, 21, is held in jail here awaiting deportation Aug. 6. From her jail cell she asked the U. S. consulate for clearance to marry the former missionary she followed here from Chicago after they fell in love.

Apollon official said Mrs. Eileen Young, the girl's mother, his asked American authorities to refuse clearance for the marriage, which is required by Italian law on the grounds she is not rational.

A terse official notice from his church superiors said he was "expelled," Negrini said.

He said "This means now I can freely do what I want" and added his first act would be to marry the young girl who loved him so much she tried to throw herself from a police station window on July 28 when she was refused permission to remain in Italy any longer.

"If possible we will go back to the United States but that it not important now," Negrini told a reporter.

Bus Strike in Texarkana Is Averted

Texarkana, Aug. 1 —(AP)—A strike of drivers and mechanics of the public transit system operating in this twin-city area was averted last night when the workers accepted a five-cent-an-hour wage increase.

The company offer to raise salaries came as the union employees — members of the AFL Amalgamated Association of Street, Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America — were to walk off their jobs.

The union contract expired at midnight.

Clarence Abner, international vice president of the union, said the offer of a year's contract was accepted by the union members at a mass meeting last night.

Drivers and mechanics now will earn $1.10 an hour for a 54-hour work week.

The company made the offer shortly after the city councils of Texarkana, Ark., and Texarkana, Tex., approved fare increases for the firm. Fares now will be 10 cents for adults and five cents for children. Under old rates adults could ride three times for a quarter.

Draft Figure for October Is 41,000

Washington, Aug. 1 —(AP)—The defense department today called for the drafting of 41,000 men in October — 5,000 for the marine corps and 36,000 for the army.

The total for the month is an increase of 6,220 over that previously asked for September, when the army was to get 28,000 and the marines 6,180.

The marine corps resorted to the draft in August for the first time since the start of the Korean campaign.

Under the call, October will be the third month of drafting for the marines.

In the August-October period the marines expect to draft 18,180 men in addition to obtaining recruits through a continuing volunteer program.

The October call for 41,000 is the highest monthly draft quota since March when 80,000 men were requested, all for the army.

Drafting dropped to a low for the Korean war period in July when only 15,000 men were inducted by the army.

Lindbergh's Plane Builder Succumbs

Studio City, Calif., Aug. 1 —(AP)—Benjamin Franklin Mahoney, who built the monoplane "Spirit of St. Louis" in which Charles A. Lindbergh flew the Atlantic to Paris, is dead.

The 50-year-old former plane builder succumbed yesterday in a sanitarium. He had been in ill health for a long time.

Mahoney bought out Claude Ryan's flying school in San Diego, converted to plane building, and built a special version of his Ryan monoplane for Lindbergh, with enlarged wings to carry the necessary supply of fuel for the 1927 flight across the ocean.

Mahoney's health failed a few years later and St. Louis backers obtained control of his company.

Two sons, Benjamin and Edward, of Los Angeles, survive.

Reds Warn 38th Must Be Buffer Line

U. N. Advance Base Below Kaesong, Korea, Thursday, Aug. 2 —(UPI)—The Chinese and North Korean Communists asserted today that cease-fire talks will collapse unless the United Nations command agrees to a truce line along the 38th parallel.

In Washington Secretary of State Dean Acheson promptly retorted that the U. N. can not accept the Communist demand.

A blast of Red propaganda statements restating a flat demand for the parallel, instead of the present battle front as the truce line was opened last night as a deadlock in the cease-fire negotiations at Kaesong passed through its sixth day.

U. N. and Communist negotiators stuck fast to their opposing positions throughout yesterday's meeting.

A U. N. communiqué said the negotiators "failed to make progress" or change their basic positions during two hours and 22 minutes of debate.

However, Brig. Gen. William H. Harkins, the official Allied briefing officer, told newsmen that the Communist negotiators had seemed "more reasonable." He did not elaborate.

A 17th negotiating session was called for Kaesong at 11 a. m. tomorrow (9 p. m. today EDT). Continued on Page Two

Marine Who Slew 7 Gets Top Award

Washington, Aug. 1 —(AP)—Lt. Henry Alfred Commiskey, 24, who killed seven Communists in hand-to-hand combat, today was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor — the first marine to receive it — for heroism in Korea.

President Truman personally fastened the decoration around the neck of the young first lieutenant in a White House ceremony.

Commiskey was cited for "conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity at the risk of his life above and beyond the call of duty" in fearlessly leading a charge up a hill last September. It was in this scrap that he personally disposed of seven enemy soldiers.

There were some indications the White House had made special arrangements for the ceremony for Commiskey. It released to reporters the citation for the marine although these ordinarily are issued at the Pentagon, even when a ceremony is held at the White House.

There was no explanation, but reporters recalled that Mr. Truman got himself into a jam with the marine corps last summer by calling them the navy's "police force" and saying it had a propaganda machine "almost equal to Stalin's." That was in a letter to a congressman.

The marines and their admirers set up a howl from the Halls of Montezuma to the shores of Pusan. Mr. Truman, an old artilleryman himself, apologized for his "unfortunate choice of language."

Commiskey is now post supply officer at the Marines Barracks, U. S. Naval Air Rocket test station, Lake Denmark, Dover, N. J. His wife and two children live at Rockaway, N. J. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh W. Commiskey, live at Hattiesburg, Miss.

Present at the White House ceremony were Commiskey's family, including his parents and a brother, army master Sgt. M. J. Commiskey, 28, who was wounded in Korea while serving with the 187th airborne infantry.

Also attending were Secretary of Defense Marshall, secretary of the Navy Kinball, secretary of the Army Pace, secretary of the Air Force Finletter, General Clifford B. Cates, commandant of the marine corps and other notables.

Little Rock, Aug. 1 —(AP)—A run-off Aug. 14 between Sam Wassell and Franklin Loy for mayor of Little Rock was assured today.

Incumbent Wassell led a three-man preferential primary yesterday, but failed to win a clear majority over Alderman Loy and Grover J. H. Hickinbotham.

Complete and unofficial returns gave:

Wassell 7,720.

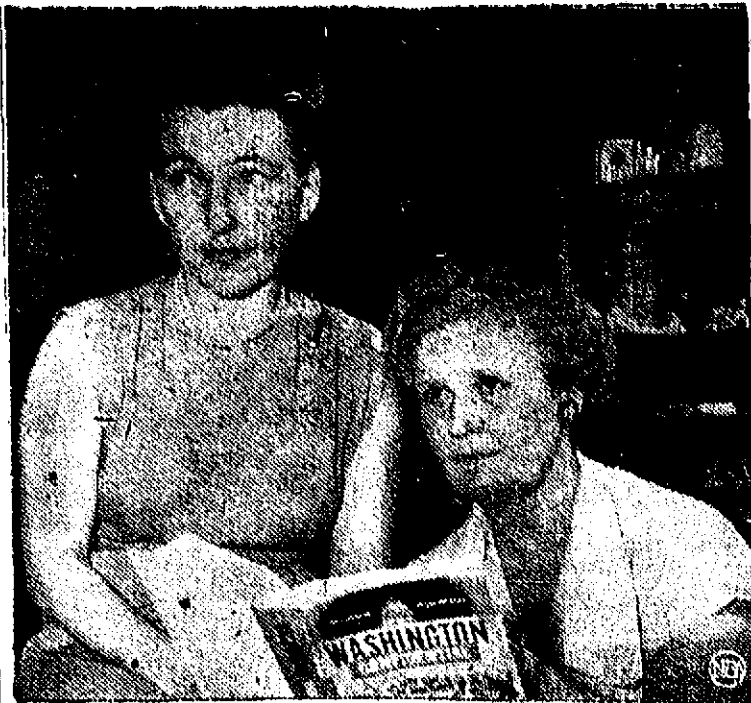

Loy 4,870.

Hickinbotham 1,235.

Hickinbotham, who recently climbed into the public eye in a dispute with the city administration over enforcement of Arkansas' ancient "blue laws," was taking his first fling at Little Rock politics.

New Control Law Points Up 1952 Campaign

By AMES MARLOW

Washington, Aug. 1 —(AP)—Now we have a new price control law. It will take us a few months to see whether prices go up.

If they go up, this law, which President Truman signed last night, will be a political football in the 1952 election campaigns.

If they go up, the politicians will blame one another while the ordinary citizen stands by, suffering in his pocketbook.

Because the law is complicated, it's doubtful any ordinary citizen could understand it well enough to decide who's to blame if prices rise.

But the groundwork has now been laid for the blame ahead, if inflation gets worse.

On the one side are the President and his assistants, condemning this law; on the other are the members of congress who passed it.

The President signed it last night but explained he would have vetoed it if that hadn't meant the country would then be left without a price control law.

Bollworm Threat Worst in 10 Years

By The Associated Press

Arkansas farmers have been alerted against the most extensive outbreak of bollworms in 10 years.

A crop-reporter visited Tuesday by the Arkansas extension service specialists, warned that the attack is "likely."

They explained that a break in corn silking periods bringing about a scarcity of corn is expected to send the worms into cotton for sustenance.

The report did sound one bright note. It said the fight against the boll weevil is showing progress.

Mr. Suburbanite Writes of Good Life Out Long Island Way Where He Built a House

By FRANK ECK For HAL BOYLE

New York —(AP)—My entire life has been changed. It took me five years of contemplation and people said I was crazy. They told me not to do it, but I built a home.

Or rather, I got a builder to build it on my own little 40-acre 40-odd miles out on Long Island on the former Otto Kahn estate — now known as Cold Spring Hills.

This, however, is not a corny tale, even though people still continuously warn me about the Long Island railroad, the biggest rail line in the world. Thus far, I don't have too many complaints about the LIRR, but I've been riding it only a few weeks.

A country boy who moved into the city, I decided maybe the country wasn't so bad after all, and six years ago my wife Vi and I picked out our own plot of ground.

We paid our taxes every year, except one time when the bill got shoved back in a seldom-used drawer. Every so often we would drive out and admire our hunk of woods, occupied by some 40 oak trees, a couple of birches and poison ivy.

About 14 months ago, we decided it was time. We became more friendly with a University of Michigan graduate who came close to winning a national contest in architecture last winter.

Maybe if we hadn't bothered him so much about the plans for our six-room ranch house he would have won it. Anyway, he promised the plans would be under our Christmas tree. Christmas day, we looked. No plans.

Two weeks later, after several long conferences with Vi and some changes here and there, he gave us the blueprints and said:

"Here's your headache. I hate to do this because I think I've just lost two friends. You'll be calling me all kinds of names."

He was wrong, though. I find that I'm just able to climb the 80-foot driveway on a 25 percent incline after an hour's ride on the Long Island, that there are two ways to get into the house through the cellar, and three or four other ways without breaking any windows.

It took Vi a year to get her

Wilson and Tarpley Are Nominated

John L. Wilson, Jr., was nominated for mayor of Hope and G. W. Tarpley for Ward One alderman in yesterday's Democratic city preferential primary election, both men winning clear majorities over the combined votes of their opponents.

Wilson outdistanced the three-man mayoral race, polling 800 votes against 270 for C. A. Armistage and 223 for Joe Jones.

In the Ward One contest Tarpley had a total of 682 compared to 240 for Charles Wylie and 328 for W. C. Gentry.

Both Wilson and Tarpley automatically become the Democratic nominees and will skip the runoff election which is to be held for the two-man races August 14.

W. S. Atkins, chairman of the Homestead County Democratic Central Committee, said today the official canvass of yesterday's voting will be made Friday, at which time judges and clerks will be chosen and plans perfected for the August 14th runoff.

Clubs

Green Lasceter
On Friday afternoon, July 27 the Green Lasceter Home Demonstration Club met in the home of Mrs. Carrie Drago.

The group repeated the American Creed followed by all singing the song of the month, "Arkansas Traveler". The devotional from Proverbs 15 was given by Mrs. Lowe, who served as co-hostess.

Mrs. Lloyd Collier, president, presided over a short business meeting. An interesting demonstration on foods and nutrition and making corsages from nylon hose was given by Mrs. Lorraine Blackwood, Home Demonstration Agent.

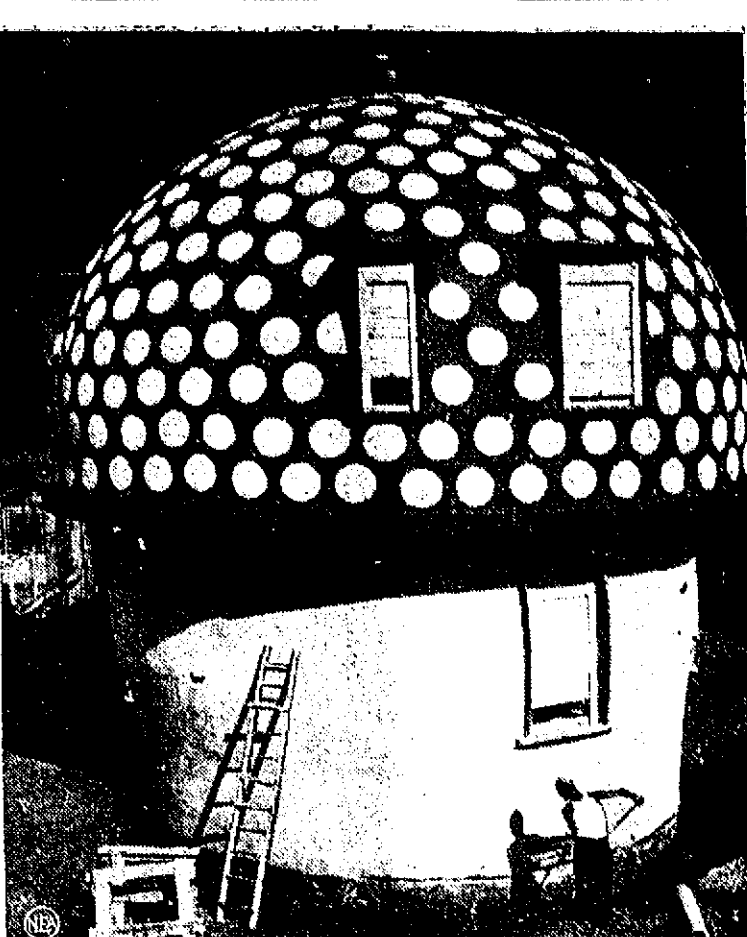

Next month the club will have its regular August picnic at Fair Park.

Sweet Home

Sweet Home Home Demonstration club met at the home of Mrs. M. H. Montgomery on July 20 with 16 members present and one visitor Mrs. Earl Head. The meeting was called to order by president, Mrs. Zack Stone. The group sang the song of the month "Arkansas Traveler" followed by the devotional given by Mrs. M. H. Montgomery. Mrs. J. E. Ward led the group in prayer.

Roll call was answered with "What I like most about club work" followed by reports from the leaders. Mrs. B. J. Warkner gave a report on care of poultry through summer months and foods and nutrition leader, Mrs. Floyd Wood, gave a report on meals for sick and well balanced meals.

Mrs. Blackwood gave a talk on how to serve balanced meals.

MacArthur May Help GOP Senators

Washington, Aug. 1 — (P) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur may have a kind word to say during the 1952 campaign about some of the Republican senators who have supported his views on Korea.

Senator Cain (R-Wash.), who has been in the forefront of MacArthur's congressional supporters, told a reporter he has heard indirectly the five-star general may visit Washington state next year while Cain is running for re-election.

He would not be surprised, Cain said, if the deposed Pacific commander finds time to praise Cain's record and his views, particularly on Far Eastern questions.

Cain said he saw the general recently but did not discuss politics in any way. He said he received what he regards as cheering news of the general's intentions from another source.

MacArthur said recently he intends to raise his voice "as loud and often as I believe it to be in the interest of the American people."

His spokesman, retired Maj. Gen. Courtney Whitney, said MacArthur is going to accept some invitations but hasn't decided exactly where he will go.

Seven Republican senators now are working on a proposed report on the MacArthur ouster inquiry which would denounce the general's dismissal by President Truman as unwarranted. Some of these might receive MacArthur's praise later.

There have been some reports that the general might speak out in favor of Senator Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) if the latter makes his expected leap into the race for the 1952 republican presidential nomination.

However, some of Taft's friends apparently have been cautioning him against linking himself too closely with the MacArthur Far Eastern policies, which the Ohioan has endorsed in general.

These Taft followers evidently believe a settlement of the Korean war would go a long way toward minimizing Korea and the Far East as a political issue next year.

To this group, what happens in Europe in the next nine months is expected to become of more political importance — unless the Communist pick a definite spot elsewhere to renew their aggression.

In dealing with the European issues, Taft is reported to be somewhat restrained by the fact that Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has round one dish and still get your daily requirement of vitamins. She also showed how to make corsages from nylon hose. Recipes for making pickles were handed out. The educational tour was discussed. The Surprise package was won by Mrs. J. E. Ward. Refreshments were served by the hostess to all present. The meeting adjourned to meet on Thursday, August 24 at the church at 7:30 for a pot luck supper. Every one is invited to be present.

Ozan - St. Paul
The Ozan-St. Paul Home Demonstration Club met July 25 in the home of Miss Alma Hanna. In the absence of the president and vice-president the meeting was conducted by Mrs. Monroe Stuart.

The women's creed was given and Miss Hanna read Exodus 2:1-9 and led in prayer. Roll call was answered by "What I Like Most in Club Work." The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Reports were given on gardens and poultry by Miss Hanna and Mrs. K. E. Rader. Mrs. Monroe Stuart led the discussion on nutrition and balanced meals.

Recreation was conducted by Mrs. Floyd Matthews with Mrs. Monroe Stuart winning the prize. A committee was appointed to plan a party and ice cream supper for August. The place is to be decided by committee. The hostess served refreshments to six members and one child.

Truman Will Return to Control Issue

Washington, Aug. 1 — (P) — President Truman prepared today to hammer again on Congress' door for a "good, strong price control law" to replace what he called the "deficient" act he signed last night.

Mr. Truman emphasized that he accepted the new, one-year defense production act — the worst I ever had to sign — only because he could not risk the lapse of its rent ceiling and largest priority control clauses.

But the bitterly disputed law was on the books, and its Republican and Democratic backers defended it against the angry White House blasts.

At the center of the storm, Michael V. DiSalvo's office of price stabilization (OPS) hastily explored techniques for lifting price ceilings to the levels now required.

price roll-backs — and a goodly number of roll-forwards — into effect last night in the final hours before Mr. Truman signed the new measure.

Yesterday brought five other major developments in the controls field: 1. The wage stabilization board extended indefinitely its allowance of cost-of-living wage increases which are tied to the government's price index.

2. OPS formally abolished its slaughtering quotas, intended to prevent a flow of meat into black markets, in conformity with the new law.

3. The office of housing expediter (OHE), now armed with strong rent control powers, disappeared as such. Mr. Truman ordered its main portions transferred to Eric Johnston's economic stabilization agency.

Re-born as the "office of rent stabilization," one will function and the other as an office parallel to OPS and the wage board. There was no sign Mr. Truman would displace its head, Tighe Woods.

4. OPS poured out a dozen additional price orders, many containing roll-backs but having small impact on living costs. They at products, reclaimed rubber, brass products, r claimed rubber, brass and copper scrap, lubricating oils and greases.

A. U. Co-ed Dies of Auto Injury

Malvern, Aug. 1 — (P) — A 19-year-old Harrison beauty last night lost a four-day battle against injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

Miss Sammye Cox died at 11:15 p. m. in a hospital here. Miss Cox and Donald Gene Clark, her 21-year-old fiance, were en route to Texarkana Friday night when their new car left highway 67 and crashed into a railroad embankment seven miles east of here. Clark was killed.

The couple was to have been married in September, but the engagement had not been announced formally. Both planned to enroll been mentioned so widely as a possible GOP presidential candidate.

Friends say Taft may go slow in advocating cuts in military funds under the $8,500,000,000 foreign aid program because he does not want to be put in the light of attempting to undermine Eisenhower in his job as North Atlantic pact commander.

Significantly, perhaps, Taft has urged deep cuts — or even abolition — of the $2,400,000,000 proposed economic aid program. But he says he hasn't made up his mind about any reduction in the military assistance total.

Territory Protection Vital to Game

Washington, Aug. 1 — George C. Trautman, boss of the minor leagues, said today the minors will die if baseball drops the rule that now makes it almost impossible for one club to move into another team's territory.

And thus, without even mentioning the Pacific Coast league by name, he jumped smack in the middle of a congressional argument over whether the major leagues should expand to the West coast.

Even before Trautman took the stand to testify before the house judiciary subcommittee studying baseball's complicated setup, his chairman, Rep. Celler (D-N.Y.), told reporters:

"There must be changes," he said. "And I'm going to insist on it. We can't have this iron-clad system forever."

However, Celler said inferences have been "incorrectly drawn" that the committee and the chairman himself believe that the Pacific Coast league should be given major league status.

"This impression is entirely erroneous," he said.

"I do have a very strong feeling that the people in control of the major leagues should so some constructive thinking on the whole problem of the location of major league franchises."

In a 31-page statement for the committee, Trautman made no direct comment on the argument that has boiled up at each of the previous hearings.

But he said: "I assert most emphatically that territorial limits are necessary to the preservation of minor league baseball."

Territorial limits keep the St. Louis Browns, say, from moving to Milwaukee, Houston or the West coast.

And so fiercely are these rights guarded, the committee was told yesterday, that no changes have been made in the major league picture in 48 years.

Last change: When the highlanders, later to become the Yankees, moved into New York.

4-Year-Old Boy Lost in Ozarks

Fayetteville, Aug. 1 — (P) — A search party of volunteers and peace officers combed the rugged Ozark mountain area near here today for a four-year-old boy who apparently wandered away from home.

The search was started about 2:30 a.m., several hours after the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Robinson disappeared from the front yard of his home near St. Paul, Ark., about 45 miles southeast of here in Madison county.

St. Paul is on the edge of the in the University of Arkansas next fall.

Miss Cox was to have been maid of honor at the wedding of a friend in Harrison and Clark was to have been an usher.

DOROTHY DIX

Hasty Marriage

Dear Miss Dix: At the age of 15 my daughter decided to marry a boy 18, from a distant state. She threatened to run away, and as she could get a "quickie" marriage near us, we finally gave our consent. She's been married 6 months and is 7 months pregnant. Her husband's conduct as a man and husband has violated every rule in the book. Now she's home and getting an allotment from the government as he's in the air force, but he comes around and makes up with her just in time to get the allotment. He tells her he has changed, and she believes him. I'm about crazy with worry and don't know what to do.

A WORRIED MOTHER
Answer: From your letter, here greatly condensed, I can see that you fought a hard but losing battle with your daughter. When a youngster gets as obstinate as she did, the seeds of disaster are sown thickly. The advice of a good lawyer who might also have a friendly interest in the case will help a lot.

He Must Support Her
In the meantime, I can only suggest that you make every effort to keep the allotment money out of this boy's hands, and make him assume all costs in the care of his wife and child. If he is made to realize that a family means the end of a carefree life for him, he may become so obstinate that your daughter will see the light and consent to an annulment.

There is also the possibility that he might come to his senses and assume the role of parenthood as an adult, and your daughter may yet find happiness in this marriage. You will just have to stand by for a while, offering up your prayer, love and the security of your home — at least until your grandchild is born. Things will then undoubtedly take a definite turn—for the better I hope.

Dear Miss Dix: A year ago I was married at the age of 18. Now I find myself becoming increasingly unhappy. My husband and I absolutely have nothing in common. We don't like the same kind of movies, books, music and we don't share the same opinions on any subject. He is a fine man, thoughtful and considerate. He is five years older than I. I find myself falling out of love and longing for the freedom of dates and good times with younger boys. Should I divorce my husband and look for a person more like myself or should I stay with the bargain I made in such haste?

VERA
Answer: Living in the past is supposed to be a pastime of oldsters; you're beginning it at 18! Come back to the present and face your mountainous Ozark National forest land.

Mrs. Robinson said her son, Joe was last seen yesterday morning. She said she didn't become alarmed until late yesterday afternoon when he did not return to his home.

She called Washington County sheriff Bruce Crider early today when she was unable to contact Madison County Sheriff Barry Denny. However, Denny later was called into the hunt.

Sheriff Crider and a group of Fayetteville citizens left here early today to search the wooded, hilly countryside for the youngster.

A detachment from the Fayetteville fire department was to join the searchers later.

current problems with a little sense. Stop yearning over the dates and good times you think you might have had if you were single—chances are they never would have been as romantic as your dreams make them.

Remember back to your marriage vows—until death, not until you and your husband had a disagreement about a movie! I don't wonder your thoughts seem childish to him; you have a very immature mind but there's no reason to keep it that way. Your husband seems to be a fine person, with infinite patience. You can learn a great deal from him, so instead of disagreeing with all his opinions, learn to share them and to discuss current topics on an equal basis. By raising your own mental level you will get over the little day dreaming that now seems to occupy most of your time. If you can't work this problem out alone, consult the pastor of your church who will be happy to help you achieve a better balanced attitude toward life.

Dear Miss Dix: I have been engaged for fifteen months; my fiancé is 33, I am 27. However, marriage is fast receding into the background. He says he will not get married until he pays off some of his debts and if I want to get married soon I'll have to continue working. My people think he is a bad matrimonial risk and want me to break the engagement. I think he is using these obligations (which are, incidentally, gambling debts) as an excuse to delay marriage.

EMMA
Answer: Your summing up of the case seems to be essentially correct. The surest sign of love a man can manifest is the willingness—even eagerness—to provide a home for the girl he loves, and cherish her in the fullest sense of the word. This consideration to his fiancée is certainly open to doubt.

Of course you want to get married, but there is no prospect of security or happiness for you in this set-up.

Fair Enough

By Westbrook Pegler

By King Features Syndicate.

New York, July 31 — Bernard Baruch's reconciliation with President Truman is a bleak and grudging waiver of the venerable statesman's proud contempt for a fellow whom he publicly put away as "a rude, uncouth, ignorant man." General George Marshall was hooted to the mechanical camp for Truman which occurred at Marshall's home in Leesburg, Va., on a Sunday afternoon, but Truman and his chief justice, Fred Vinson, obviously were in on the play which would put the head of the supreme court back into politics if it could be said that he ever got out.

Truman and Vinson went for a drive and dropped in on the Mar-shalls to discover there the "older statesman" who had been flown down from New York with Arthur Godfrey for the purpose of this casual meeting. As to whether Baruch knew the real reason why he was making this flight at the age of 81 for an otherwise pointless social date with the Marshalls on a Sunday afternoon, I have no information. My suspicion is that he felt that he had had his revenge on Truman for the dirty letter that Truman wrote him in the fall of 1948 when Truman was deserted by most of the politicians who owed him the bloodless but obligatory gratitude of politicians for a party nominee. This letter gave the public his first intimation that Truman was a fellow of uneasy temper who in the small hours, wrote insults that were later left unwritten and sent out letters that were better burned in the grate.

Since then he wrote the letter to the fellow on the Washington Post who couldn't say much for Margaret's voice, confirming the tenor of the one to Baruch, and there was circumstantial evidence of still another which the recipient returned to him so that Truman, himself, could destroy it. He was admonished that this letter should not exist and was given a chance to put it out of existence by a man who might have kept it as a valuable and very significant historical souvenir. I was told by an honest authority that Arthur Crook, of the New York Times, was the man, but Mr. Crook said he wasn't and he wouldn't lie. The worst I can say about my honest authority is that he was mistaken.

Godfrey comes along as a strange political phenomenon in an age of political novelties. He is a man of personal substance, to be sure, and has a big following in his role of radio and television jester. But, whereas Will Rogers was a true professional humorist with an affection of quaintness, Godfrey seems to have a political personality. He is a friend of Baruch and seems to have the financier's confidence and lately has seemed to some of his audience to be going Democratic in the Truman version of the party which includes the elements of the British version of Marx. There is no point in crowding Godfrey, however. He is in charge of his own destiny and if it should fall out that a comedian should become president, Godfrey wouldn't be the first, nor the worst.

Baruch clearly understood that Truman would be willing to cut another crow like the one he de-voured to restore himself to the toleration of the marine corps, to get his political support.

Truman, of course, needs Baruch badly for 1952. He needs his prestige with a personal following, and the money he can give and get from others. So this awkward act was arranged and Truman is reported to have remarked: "I'm sorry."

It might seem that Truman had nothing to offer Baruch, but the old gentleman loves the role of "adviser to presidents," which many would regard as a good almost as high as the presidency itself and he had angrily benched himself in October, 1948, when he laid an honest opinion on the Truman had taken some hide off him for his refusal to serve as chairman of the finance committee of the Democratic party. The outlook was dark and Truman said Baruch was a front-runner who took favors when the going was easy, but didn't want to be committed to a loser. This was unfair to Baruch because he had usually refrained from such work and anyway he was getting along in years. Then a rough but fairly true paraphrase of the letter was released by way of the New York night clubs. It may seem incredible that the White House would stoop to such methods, but the Stork, 21 and El Morocco became hollow trees of a new design for the distribution of such stuff soon after the Roosevelt crowd of 48 left moved in.

This paraphrase was traced to the circle of old Alben Barkley, so the inference was clear that Truman took pains to ship it into

El Dorado Swamped by Monroe

By United Press
El Dorado Oilers learned last night it doesn't pay to be the losing team when the leading Monroe Sports of the Cotton States league get their dander up.

Monroe, which kicked away an extra inning game to El Dorado Monday night, was out to redeem itself last night — and it did with a bang, swamping El Dorado 12 to 2 to add a full game to its lead.

Hot Springs gave the Sports a most assist, taking a 6 to 4 win over winner Greenwood to drop the Mississippi team 2 1-2 games behind Monroe.

In other games, Natchez beat Greenville 7 to 4 and Clarksdale tripped Pine Bluff 6 to 0.

It took Monroe until the fourth inning to get started last night, but the Sports racked up three runs in the fourth and six more in the fifth to coast on it. They added the last three tallies in the eighth and ninth.

Three El Dorado pitchers were pounded for 14 hits while White limited the Oilers to five safeties.

Hot Springs shoved over four runs in the fourth and staved of Greenwood rallies to take its win.

John Miskulin was touched for 11 hits by Greenville, but kept them scattered as Natchez put two big innings together. The Indians took a 4 to 0 lead in the second and then added three more in the eighth.

Clarksdale and Pine Bluff rocked along on even terms until the Mississippi club came up with two runs in the seventh and then pushed over two more in the eighth. Pine Bluff's big threat came in the sixth when the Judges scored four times off Jim Dupuy who allowed 12 hits. Three Pine Bluff pitchers were hit for 16 safeties.

Tonight games: Monroe at El Dorado; Natchez at Greenville; Greenwood at Hot Springs; Clarksdale at Pine Bluff.

circulation to hurt Baruch as much as it could. However, if it made a bun of anyone that one wasn't Baruch.

The old gentleman confided his fury to several journalists who were unwary enough to let him tie them up with confidence. But about the same time, in 1946, when he refused to tell me what the letter said, I told him I said: "I was ashamed that a man in the White House should write such a letter. I didn't reply at all. I did go to Washington but not to see Truman. Nor did I make any overtures to him and I shall not. He is a rude, uncouth, ignorant man. Well, you newspapersmen fell for him when he came in. Well, I didn't fall for him. I knew him too well."

Congressman Threatens Baseball

Washington, Aug. 1 —(AP)—Chairman Celler D-N.Y. of a house judiciary subcommittee investigating organized baseball said today that having major leagues only in the eastern states is "intolerable."

"There must be changes," he told newsmen. And I'm going to insist on it. We can't have this iron-clad system forever."

The committee, trying to determine whether baseball should be exempt from anti-trust laws, looked today to two minor league spokesmen further information.

They are Harry Simmons, public relations man for the international league, and George Trautman, president of the Minor Leagues' National Association of Professional Baseball Clubs.

Celler's blast was touched off by the testimony yesterday of Ford Frick, National league president, regarding the rejection of major league status to the Pacific coast league.

Frick explained to the committee that the major league agreement specified that there shall be two major leagues.

And this would have to be changed by a vote of the club owners, he said, if any other league were to succeed in going big time.

The National and the American — the only two major leagues — operate east of the Mississippi. West Coast fans and clubs in the Pacific Coast league are urging expansion of big time ball in their direction.

And this would have to be changed by a vote of the club owners, he said, if any other league were to succeed in going big time.

Double Loss Cuts L. R. Lead to 1 Game

By The Associated Press

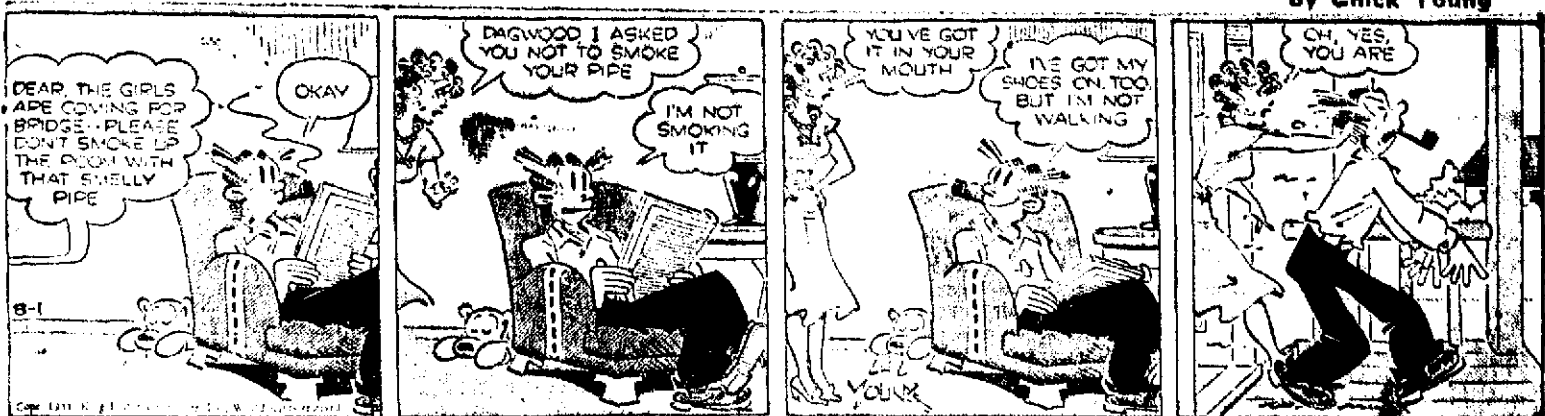

Two old ex-major league players, whose admittedly ages add up to 79, hurled brilliantly Tuesday night for the Birmingham Barons and cut the Little Rock Travelers' southern association lead to a single game.

Bob Newsom, who says he is 41, blanked the Trvs, 3-0, with eight-hitter after 38-year-old left-hander Mickey Haefer stopped them, 21, on six hits in the first game. The opener, scheduled for seven innings, went nine before the Barons won it.

Wednesday night's second twin bill in a row for the two top-notchers will reveal whether the Rocks are finally bowing out to the persistent Barons. The defeats Tuesday night were their second and third successive losses.

Atlanta and Memphis divided shutouts. The Chicks zeroed the Crackers, 6-0, in the short opener and were humbled, 12-0, in the second affair. Chattanooga's awakening Lookouts defeated Mobile.
